

Sports of all sorts

Photo by Julia McKay

Queen's Golden Gaels shortstop Jody Pint, No. 27, tagged out Toronto Varsity Blues Jonathan Isaac, No. 16, as he attempted to steal second base in the fifth inning in Kingston action. The Gaels, who are currently in last place with only one win so far this season, led the scoring throughout the game. The final was 8-6 with the Gaels taking game one of the double header against the Blues at Megaffin Park Sept. 23.

By Catherine Jackman

For the players, it's the rush of adrenaline, all hanging on that singular moment, where one subtle slip is the difference between victory and defeat. It follows the thin line of a pseudo-brotherhood versus the immediate hatred for their opponents. The fans go to support their team, the players, either waiting in baited anticipation, or idly chatting amongst each other, collecting themselves in the game.

Within the last week, there have been at least six various sporting events occurring in Belleville and the surrounding area. Between the school sports, including both high school and college levels, and the OHL, this week was buzzing with the anticipation of the game. While not all ended their games in victory, with some players never even leaving the bench, there was never a time when spirit wasn't present.

From hockey to baseball, all of the sports have one singular thing in common, the desire to win.

Photo by Alicia Wynter

Junior Trenton Tigers' linebacker Jacob Stevenson, 58, tackles Junior Centennial Chargers' defensive half Emerson Doser, 3 during the Friday Night Lights tournament at Mary Ann Sills Park Sept. 21. Centennial won 33-20.

Photo by Evan Campbell

Loyalist men's rugby first-year player Evan Vance from Corbyville makes a huge hit on Fleming College's Michael Power. Vance had a stellar game with 16 points against Fleming. He ran a try, kicked four converts and a penalty kick to help Loyalist beat Fleming 41-7.

Photo by David Zammit

(L-r) Stacey Nesbitt, 316 from St-Lazare, Que., Ken Hill, 620A from Heuvelton, N.Y. and Karolina Pelc, 91, from Guelph are shown in action at Shannonville on Sept. 23. Shannonville Motorsports Park was host to Motorcycle Super Series Racing, round six of the year.

Photo by Lyndsay-Lee Quinn

Lucas Lessio of the Oshawa Generals scores the first goal of the game on Peterborough Petes goaltender Andrew D'Agostini. The Generals start their season off with a win during the Petes home opener at the Peterborough Memorial Centre with 2,732 people in attendance. The Generals take a 5-2 win over the Petes.